LEVEE MISSION WILL OCCUPY A FOUR-STORY BUILDING JANUARY 1.

The Levee Mission, which was organized last January by the Reverend Aaron Lichtenstein, has met with such success that it has been determined to enlarge the scope of its work, and to make it an established downtown mission. Since its foundation the mission has been located on the Levee just north of Market street, but on account of its recent rapid growth, it has been decided to remove it to the four-story building at the corner of Main and Market street, which it will occupy in future.

Mr. Lichtenstein, the founder, has been closely identified with the mission work for several years in large cities, especially in New York. Through the influence of the late Doctor Brooks he was called to St. Louis to take up the work among the Jews and the Jewish Mission was established. This building was so arranged that religious services could be
